

Strip down for cause

By SARAH PRICE

TWO staff member at Brown's Butchery will take the Dress Down Drug Free theme to the limit tomorrow when they don nothing but shorts to raise money for charity.

The Dress Down Drug Free event is the annual awareness and fundraising event for Hunter Life Education which provides Hunter children and young people with the knowledge and skills to make healthy lifestyle choices. Brown's Butchery manager Chris Drane said this was the third year he had taken part in the day. He and coworker Corey Hayden hoped to improve on last year's effort of $300.

"It was a bit of a shock for customers last year," Mr Drane said. "But it is all in the name of a good cause that helps the community."
