

Volunteers needed

HELP is needed to make the December 5 World's Biggest Car Boot Sale the biggest and best yet.

But to do that 45 volunteers are needed to help Hunter Life Education sell cakes, tea and coffee, as well as help with traffic marshalling, gold-coin collection, drink sales and selling raffle tickets.

Hunter Life Education would be more than happy if 45 volunteers like Hamilton's Rohan Harvey decided to lend a hand.

Mr Harvey has been a volunteer with Hunter Life Education for the past three years.

"I was looking for a way to give back to the community and I thought it was a good cause," Mr Harvey said.

While it is good to be able to give money, Mr Harvey said it was great to become actively involved within your community to build contacts and know what was happening.

"It [volunteering] is a good way to network and know your community and give back and it might increase your job prospects," Mr Harvey said.

"It is a good feeling to know you are doing it and instead of focusing on yourself you get to focus on others and help others."

In 2009 the World's Biggest Car Boot Sale raised more than $30,000 with more than 400 stallholders taking part.

Cars were crammed with goods and the public had a fun-filled family day with live entertainment, Kids Korner with rides, displays, NBN's Big Dog and Hunter Life Education's Healthy Harold.

The 2010 World's Biggest Car Boot Sale will be held at EnergyAustralia Stadium car park, New Lambton, on Sunday, December 5, from 9am to 2pm.

Money raised will go to HELP: Rohan Harvey will volunteer at this year's Life Education fund-raiser.

the Hunter Life Education, which aims to prevent drug and alcohol use in young people through its school education programs.
